INTRODUCTION

Many people have used English to support their life goals since it has become an international language for communication around the world (Sari & Aminatun, 2021). Moreover, English skill is essential for everyone living in this globalized time who want to compete with others, as English is utilized as a means of communication on a global scale. It is impossible to deny that English has become an important language in Indonesia, as it is taught at nearly every educational level (Handayani & Aminatun, 2020). According to Pustika & Wiedarti (2019), one of the most significant subjects in our educational system is English. It may be demonstrated through the Indonesian government’s concrete measures that English is covered in the curriculum. It means that the Indonesian government expects its students to be able to communicate in English.

Learning vocabulary is a key aspect in learning English. This is a major aspect in learning a foreign language (Ambarwati & Mandasari, 2020). According to Thornbury (2002), “if you spend much of your time learning grammar, your English will not change very much; you can see the most progress if you learn more vocabulary and expression; you can tell very little with grammar, but almost all with words.” Furthermore, Viera (2017) claimed that vocabulary skill is an essential tool for being fluent in any language skills; it also aids in the comprehension of written and spoken texts. Similarly, Simamora & Oktaviani (2020) said, if students want to be proficient in English, they must learn as much vocabulary as possible. Vocabulary is one of the most important aspects of the language. According to the statements, mastering vocabulary is an integral part of learning a foreign language. So we may assume that without proper language, we cannot interact effectively or articulate a concept. Knowing the meaning and comprehension of a word as we talk is what learning English vocabulary implies. As a result, students with a limited vocabulary would fail to learn English. Students are also having difficulty expanding their vocabulary and memorizing the words.

Many EFL students having difficulties in learn vocabulary. According to Rohmatillah (2014), kinds of difficulties faced by students in vocabulary learning were various. There were some factors that caused students’ difficulties in learning vocabulary: (1) the written form is different from the spoken form in English, (2) the number of words that students need to learn is exceedingly large, (3) the limitations of sources of information about words,
English would help students relax and make it easier to set an optimistic tone for the day or the beginning of the class. Furthermore, songs help students retain their focus and because people find it much easier to memorize something that is fun and melodic than a standard sentence.

Therefore, English learners must improve their vocabulary to also improve their English. There are many ways to enhance students’ vocabulary mastery. One of the ways is through songs. Songs can be an effective learning tool in English classes. It is believed that song can be a very useful tool for introducing new English words and increasing the vocabulary of English Foreign Language students. According to Kusnieriak (2016), one advantage of using songs in English classes is that they provide linguistic material, such as vocabulary, pronunciation, or grammar. Furthermore, Gottfried (2007) said that music connects students with new cultures and opens up a whole new world, which is just one of the reasons why songs are an important component of teaching world languages. Furthermore, if songs are used in class, students will learn new vocabulary or develop their pronunciation (Aguirre, et al., 2016). The content of a song is not only for entertainment, but it can also include a new method of learning a language. Playing a song can help to set an optimistic tone for the day or the beginning of the classroom, or it can help to sustain a positive attitude during the day (Brewer in Sari et al., 2019).

Several researches related to the use of songs in enhancing students’ English skill had ever been conducted. First research from Sari et al. (2019) stated in the research that songs can be trusted to help remember vocabulary and used the songs are interested in learning English. Memorizing song can be used to develop English vocabulary mastery so that the purpose of learning English as a communication tool can be achieved optimally, also songs have a significant impact on improving students’ vocabulary mastery. Next is from Meutia et al. (2014) found a positive and significant correlation between habitual listening to English songs and vocabulary mastery, implying that habitual listening to English songs would improve students’ vocabulary mastery. Third, Sari (2014) found that the use of English songs in the process of teaching and learning English would help students relax and make it easier for them to receive the material provided by the teacher, resulting in an expansion of their English knowledge, especially their vocabulary mastery.

From the result of the previous researches above, it can be concluded that by listening to western music, students will get new ideas and also develop their vocabulary. Students can play music while they are studying and also the can learn new vocabulary by see the song lyrics. Their habit in listening to English music can enhancing their vocabulary. Cebula in Gasma et al. (2017) stated that the students who participate in learning through songs can express themselves easily and pick up a lot of new words. Furthermore, according to Lozanov in Wangi et al. (2017), the environment produced by the song increases the ability to remember new vocabularies because people find it much easier to memorize something that is fun and melodic than a standard sentence. Furthermore, songs help students retain their focus and concentration.

From the explanation above, the researcher is interested in exploring students’ vocabulary mastery using English songs. This research will be different from several previous researches because this study will focus on the students’ point of view on their vocabulary mastery using English songs while the previous studies focused on the improvement of students in vocabulary mastery using English songs. Moreover, this study will also employ descriptive qualitative study in order to be different from the previous studies which used experimental as their research design to determine the progress of students’ vocabulary mastery.

METHOD
In this research, the researcher used descriptive qualitative study as the research design. The subjects of this research were 30 students from English education students of Faculty of Arts and Education in Universitas Teknokrat Indonesia. This research was using questionnaire as the main instrument that was distributed through Google Forms to the participants. The questionnaire consisted of 17 questions which covered about students’ interest in English songs, how English songs affected their English learning, and how English songs could improve their vocabulary mastery. Besides, the researcher also conducted an interview to get deep information about students’ point of view on their vocabulary mastery.

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION
The results of the study reveal that almost all the students have positive attitude about the use of English songs. The majority of students agreed that listening to English songs helps them improve their English skills and learn new vocabulary. The results of the questionnaire were also validated by the researcher’s interview. The results of the interview revealed that they can learn vocabulary by looking at the lyrics of English songs, and that they felt that English songs help them with English skills such as listening and speaking. The details are explained below.
1. Students’ interest in listening to English songs

The first aspect is about students’ interest in English song and from the result of first statement showed positive response from the participants because all of them (100%) like to listen English song. The second statement is (80,6%) of the participants said that they always listen to English song everyday even though there are (22,6%) of them not listening to English song everyday. The third statement (87,1%) of the participants always listen the newest song from their favorite singers and (12,9%) of them said no to this statement. The next statement that discuss about they habit spend five hours to listening to English song and the result show (41,9%) of them said yes and (61,3%) of them said no. The fifth statement almost of them (93,5%) said that they like listening to native-english singers and (6,5%) said no to this statement. The last statement from this aspect is almost of them (96,8%) like to listening to music using application such as Joox, Spotify and etc. this result of questionnaire also supported by the interview that the students like to listen to English song and most of them like to listen to pop English songs. Besides, there also the students who like to listen kind of rapp English song and jazz English song.

The first aspect category analyzed in this research as stated above is about students’ interest toward English songs. This aspect used to know whether the students are interested in listening to English song or not. The result above showed positive response because more than 80% of the students said that they like to listen to English song, this is also supported by interview that they like to listen to English song. To espouse it, Harlyn & Suhartono (2016) stated that if students are interested in listening to English songs, they will do it on a regular basis. Students will not only be exposed to the specific sounds of English, but also realize their errors and correct them. In such long time if this activity is done regularly and repeatedly, they will be able to achieve more native-like pronunciation. Moreover, students will also improve their ability to recognize the sounds and help them communicate effectively with others. According to the result, it can be concluded that students enjoy listening to the music because they are always stay up to date with new songs from their favorite singer and spend more than five hours to listen to the music. It shows that English songs can also indirectly improve students’ independent learning. Aminatun & Oktaviani (2019) infer that an application that can be used anywhere and anytime whenever students want to can enhance students’ autonomous learning. Here, songs can be one of the tools because it can be accessed from music applications used by students, like Joox, Spotify, and others. Using the media in the teaching and study of English will, in general, increase student motivation and attention (Sinaga and Oktaviani, 2020). This also shows that students nowadays are facilitated by abundant technology that can help them learn many things, including English vocabulary (Aminatun, 2019). Furthermore, using technology is a crucial tool for students to grasp language learning in the digital era by leveraging digital media and internet use (Sari, 2020). Although it tackles abstract topics, using technology in language learning might assist students enhance their academic performance (Mandasari, 2020) and focus on the material (Oktaviani & Desiarti, 2017). Furthermore, it provides two benefits: 1) learning methodologies and 2) improving students’ understanding of using technology as a learning medium (Oktaviani & Mandasari, 2020). The result of the questionnaire also confirms that the use of technology can change the process of language teaching and learning (Sari & Wahyudin, 2019).

2. English songs for students English learning

The result of the questionnaire also confirms that the use of technology can change the process of language teaching and learning (Sari & Wahyudin, 2019).

As presented above, the students stated that English songs help them in speaking skill, such as pronouncing and spelling the words in correct ways. Students’ ability to understand in listening, speaking, reading, and writing will certainly improve as their vocabulary grows. According to Oktaviani (2016), improving vocabulary mastery can improve university students’ speaking skills. According to Nurkolip & Hanafi (2019), English songs can assist students in familiarizing themselves with the voice of a native speaker, increasing their vocabulary mastery, and ability to pronounce English words; all of which can help in the improvement of all four skills: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Furthermore, Suri (2014) added that English songs are valuable resources for improving students’ listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills. They can also be used to teach language skills like pronunciation, spelling, meaning, and grammar. The result above also justifies that learning English has shifted from conventional Iway to technology-based learning (Mandasari & Aminatun, 2020)

The third aspect or the last aspect of this research is about the use of English song on students’ vocabulary mastery. There are eight statements for this aspects and for the first aspect was about their point of view on their happiness studying vocabulary through English song and result showed almost of them (96,8%) of them said yes and the rest of them (3,2%) said no. The second statement showed (96,8%) of them agreed that English song help them find the meaning of English word and (3,2%) disagree. The third statement about English song help them in learning new vocabulary and the result showed (93,5%) of them said yes and the others (6,5%) said no to this statement. The fourth statement showed (93,5%) of them agreed that English song can increase their vocabulary. The fith statement was about English song help them pronounce the English word correctly and the result showed that (96,8%) of the participants said yes to this statement and others (3,2) said no to this statement. The sixth statement showed (87,1%) of the participants agreed that when they listen to popular English song make it easier to them in improving their vocabulary. The next statement discussed about when they listen to English song it can add their vocabulary and the result was (93,5%) of them said yes and (6,5%) said no to this statement. The last statement showed (93,5%) of the participants like to see the song lyrics in English song because it can make them memorize the words. This is also supported by the result of the interview that the students said English song help them in learning vocabulary and help them in improving their vocabulary mastery.

From the result, it shows that the students agreed that English songs help them learn vocabulary and help them improve their vocabulary. Wardiansyah et al. (2019) stated that students who have a high level of vocabulary mastery will also have a high level of listening habits to English songs. Also, songs have entertaining side which caused the students to relax and enjoy themselves. This way is such a simple way for them to catch and memorize the vocabulary. It can also be one of the ways to teach students vocabulary since teachers need to be creative in choosing strategy and media for English learners (Aminatun & Oktaviani, 2019).
CONCLUSION

The result from the questionnaire and the interview showed that English songs help the students learn and enhance students’ vocabulary as well as their English skills. Moreover, from the habit of the students that like listening to English songs every day, the students feel that English songs have high influence on their English skills. Also, the students feel that English song are interesting and entertaining as the media for them to learn new vocabulary, unfamiliar vocabulary, and pronounce the word correctly. Thus, in the end it can improve their vocabulary. Students will try to see the lyrics of the English songs and find out the meaning of those words. After that, they implement them in their daily written or spoken English and gradually they will be familiar with the word and using them. Using English songs can also be an alternative way for teachers to be used as a medium to learn English since listening to the music will be relaxing for them especially music that students like. Since this research still lacks in some parts, it is hoped that the future researchers can also investigate the influence of English songs for another research context, research design and variables.
